Agreement explained

My thanks to Cr Syers for his letter ("CEO employment") explaining the CEO's employment agreement.

Not satisfied with just supplying the information, Cr Syers bemoans the fact that Mr Slater resorts to the newspaper to get it. Wouldn't it be nice if those of us who regularly attend council had learned about the chief executive's employment while we were at the formal meetings of council?

And Cr Syers didn't think twice about my integrity when he attacked me, knowing that I had no right of reply, at a council meeting rather than "talking to me directly" at the meeting. Wouldn't this also be regarded as "unashamed politicking by making mischievous assertions without foundation"?

It seems that Mr Slater has learned something from Cr Syers.
