

The Whangarei Report

Shame, shame, shame on the Whangarei Report. With a circulation of 32,000 and readership of 55,000 and it hits the road with so many errors. Try to get Kris von Keisenberg and his team back, as I am sure a publication would not have got past his ever watchful eyes. Kris, in my opinion, wrote exceptionally well-balanced articles with a very open mind. Local knowledge, indeed, has its merits.

I'm not a proof-reader — but sometimes changes are not for the better.
